To Whom it may Concern:

My name is Dave Miley and I was for 17 years the Director of Development of the International Tennis Federation, the World governing body of tennis. I resigned from this position after 25 years at the ITF in 2016 and now work as an international tennis consultant with clients in the USA, Europe, Africa and Asia. Previous to joining the ITF, I was 3 times national champion in Ireland, was coach to many top Irish players and also owned and ran my own Indoor Tennis and Fitness Centre in the UK where I am now based. I was author of 7 tennis coaching books and have presented at international tennis and sports conferences in many countries over the past 25 years. I received awards for services to tennis from the Asian, African and European Tennis Federations and was made a full member of the All England Club, Wimbledon, in 2012 in recognition of my contribution to Tennis. Further information can be found on my linkedin shown above.

Through my work at the ITF in running the biggest department, which included junior, senior, wheelchair, technical and anti doping as well as development, I had the chance to know Nandor Veres through his successful work as a coach in Hungary, Scandanavia and USA.

Nandor was an outstanding tennis player and was a member of the Hungarian junior and men's National Team and was a top ranked Hungarian player. He was National Coach in Hungary from 1984-88 and acted as the Fed Cup coach and as the coach to the Hungarian Tennis team to the Olympic games in 2004. He also travelled with players on the ATP and WTA tour, to the Grand Slams and to various Tennis Europe and Junior ITF events.

Nandor is a highly qualified and experienced tennis coach. He holds a Masters in Sports Science and has the top tennis coaching qualification from Hungary. He also has a degree in Mathematics and Computer Science.

Nandor has worked outside of Hungary for the past 30 years. He was part time National Coach in Norway and travelled on a regular basis with the best Norwegian players to tournaments in Europe. He also ran a successful club programme, working with players of all levels

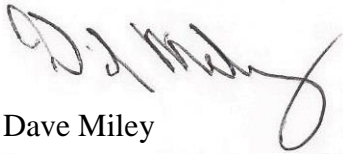

Since 2000, Nandor has been based in the USA in Florida where he has an academy called "Veres Tennis". The academy has successfully produced players that have gone on to be successful at junior, university/college and professional tennis level. Many of his players have been good enough to get scholarships to top tennis and Ivy League Universities. He has worked with many high level professional tour players including Melinda Czik who reached a high of 54 on the WTA rankings in 2004 and played in the 2004 Olympic Games. Nandor also has experience of organising tournaments of all levels including international junior and entry level professional events.

Nandor is a very responsible, trustworthy and hard working person. Knowing him as I do and taking into account his considerable experience in coaching and tennis administration/organisation and also his success in the area of coaching high performance players and players of all levels of the game, I have no hesitation in recommending him for any coaching position in tennis that he might apply for.

Do not hesitate to contact me if you could like additional information.

Sincerely,
